

Join the
Marshall Children Young Docent Program
At the
Glebe House Museum
And be a part of
History that lives!

Here is your chance to really learn what life was like for the families who lived at the Glebe during the Revolutionary War era by joining our Marshall Children Young Docent Program. Learn: to give guided tours, candle making and quill writing, do open hearth cooking, make colonial crafts, visit area museums, learn about the Gertrude Jekyll Garden; and have lots of fun.

Our Marshall Children become ambassadors in the community, and will have the opportunity to participate in events like: the Memorial Day Parade, the Woodbury Christmas Festival, and our well known All Hollow's Eve.

The program is open to interested children ages 6 and up, and runs through the school year from September until mid June. BEGINNING SEPTEMBER 20th. We generally meet twice a month on Thursday afternoons from 4-5 pm. Each child will have a colonial costume to use for our special events during the year. The children become a significant part of the museum experience and enrich those who visit by sharing their enthusiasm and new-found knowledge.

Please call LoriAnn Witte, Museum Director for more information and to register at 203-263-2855. Registration forms are also found at www.glebehousemuseum.org . There is limited space available.
